Moda Center

"Portland's Premier Sporting Destination"

Formerly known as The Rose Garden, Moda Center is home to the Portland Trail Blazers professional basketball team, and the premier indoor sports arena in Portland. Portland State University's hockey team Winterhawks also play games here. The arena has room for nearly 20,000 spectators, though the number changes depending on the event, and is popular for concerts, shows and other entertainment productions. The Rose Quarter features an impressive array of bronze statues and the dancing water fountain is one of the stadium's most important facilities along with the Veterans Memorial Coliseum and the Theater of the Clouds.

Rose Quarter

"Action Central"

As Portland's premier sports and entertainment district, the Rose Quarter features the biggest shows and best sports in town. Watch Portland Trailblazers NBA basketball team in action, enjoy concerts with big-name artists, as well as many other exciting events at the Rose Quarter. The area includes the 20,000-seat Moda Center and the 12,000-seat Memorial Coliseum, as well as parking lots, open space, restaurants and bars. You will appreciate its prime location, just across the river from downtown. The ticket office, located in the middle of the commons, is a good place to find last-minute tickets and avoid online booking fees.

Crystal Ballroom

"Dance Into the Past"

Great entertainers such as Marvin Gaye, James Brown and the Grateful Dead have performed in this historic ballroom that is now owned by the McMenamin Brothers. Three on-site bars—including a popular nightclub, Ringlers - will satiate your hunger and thirst. It is worth a visit just to behold the local landmark's ornate chandeliers, picturesque windows and a 7500-square-foot (696.7728 square meters) dance floor that floats on ball-bearings.

Arlene Schnitzer Concert Hall

"Portland's Cultural Treasure"

Dating back to 1927, the "Schnitz," as referred to by the locals, is a Portland treasure. Part of Portland's Centers for the Arts and home to the Oregon Symphony, it was overhauled in the 1980s and now provides a multitude of amenities. The concert hall seats 2,776 people with an upper and lower balcony for special views. Visit the concession stand for sandwiches, drinks and a selection of beer or wine. Located off the lobby is a gift shop offering a wide selection of Oregon Symphony merchandise that includes recordings.
